Please explain how these funds will be used to provide a public benefit:

Iron Wolf Recovery respectfully requests funding to expand our recovery-focused wellness community to connect individuals struggling with substance use disorder through physical activity and social support. Iron Wolf provides free, ongoing support for all stages of recovery from introducing families to sober activities to serving as a bridge for individuals following treatment. More than 378,000 South Carolinians are living in recovery. Support will directly benefit individuals and families in recovery by expanding access to our free, recovery-focused wellness community. Through our classes, individuals and families engage in peer-recovery meetings and regular physical activity. They have the opportunity to discover recovery as an enjoyable choice for themselves and their families by achieving their health and wellness goals alongside a supportive community of peers.

The primary gap Iron Wolf Recovery intends to address with the funding will be the limited availability of peer-led mutual aid groups that are supportive of multiple pathways to recovery, including medication assisted treatment. With the support of funding, Iron Wolf Recovery intends to increase the number of available classes and class locations, as well as include family-centric meetings for parents and children, all while providing safe, on-location childcare. By incorporating children into the recovery journey, youth will be able to see healthy pathways to recovery, engage in family-centric meetings where parents and children can heal together and engage in youth-designed physical activities. Iron Wolf Recovery also intends to will sustain existing partnerships with in-patient and intensive outpatient treatment centers to offer continuum of group-support after treatment.
